Belli Quits National Bar in Anger

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Attorney Melvin Belli announced today he is resigning from the American Bar Association.

The discharged attorney for Jack Ruby said he is quitting because the bar association president has ordered an investigation of Belli's criticism of Dallas justice without any inquiry into the lawyer's complaints.

Walter C. Craig of Phoenix, Ariz., the ABA president, in a San Francisco speech Wednesday condemned Belli's outburst following the death penalty verdict against Ruby.

Ruby was convicted six days ago in Dallas of killing Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

"Let him (Craig) investigate the substance of the charges made and not the man who made the charges," Belli told a news conference in his office. Belli repeated what he had said in the Dallas courtroom when he labeled the trial "a kangaroo railroad."

"I cannot continue in the American Bar Association if I am to continue to believe in justice and due process," Belli declared.

He said that when Judge Joe Brown refused a change of venue from Dallas he could see the handwriting on the wall.

Belli said if Ruby had been tried in any other Texas city — Fort Worth, San Antonio or Austin — Ruby would be a free man or under psychiatric care.

He expressed belief that Craig and the bar association should be concerned with investigating the system which exists in Dallas.

He said Dallas individuals are one people but when they are assembled in a jury they become unconsciously committed to doing what they believe necessary to preserve the Dallas image.

He cited that the district attorney has a record of 25 death penalty verdicts in 25 cases. Some of the verdicts, Belli went on, had been returned in three to seven minutes.

Belli said the perfected trial record shows 187 errors.

"The appellate court will have to be ashamed for taking it under advisement before reversing the verdict," he declared.

Belli insisted that he had not been paid one cent of fee for his services and he had paid most of his expenses, including those of psychiatric expert witnesses.

Belli, who flew to Mexico City after Saturday's verdict against Ruby, returned here Thursday night by way of San Diego.

Leaders of West Gather in Private

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Away from the tensions of world capitals, a hundred high-ranking leaders of Western governments met here today for a diplomatic get-together.

There are no scheduled speeches. No papers will be delivered. The three days of meetings will go on behind closed doors.

Among those attending are Prime Minister Lester Pearson of Canada, George W. Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state, former U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, and Dirk U. Stikker, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Walt C. Jones, architect, dies

MEMPHIS (AP) — Walt C. Jones Sr., an architect who designed many of this city's major buildings, died last night after a brief illness. He was 89.

Among the structures he planned were the University of Tennessee medical units, the Shelby County Courts Building, the Claridge Hotel and the International Harvester Plant here.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at Spring Hill Baptist Church, with the Rev. Stacy Thrasher officiating. Burial will be in Anderson Cemetery, with Herndon-Cornelius in charge.

Weather

Clear and cold today, with warming trend Saturday afternoon. Clear and warmer Sunday.

Papers in Houston Are Merged

HOUSTON (Pa.) — The Scripps-Howard Houston Press announced today it has been sold to the Houston Chronicle.

The announcement said the 52-year-old paper was ceasing publication with today's editions.

The sale leaves Houston with two daily newspapers—the afternoon Chronicle owned by the Jesse H. Jones interests, and the Houston Post, a morning paper whose publisher is former Texas Gov. William P. Hobby, former secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

The Press has a daily circulation of about 88,000, the Chronicle an afternoon circulation of more than 226,000 and a Sunday circulation of more than 265,000.

No sale price was indicated but the Press announcement said its employees will be given severance pay and that efforts have been started to assist them in finding other employment.

Some Press employees are members of the American Newspaper Guild. The guild has no collective bargaining contract with the Chronicle.

The Press said the sale results from successive years of operating at a loss.

Winthrop Has Decided; But What?

By WICK TEMPLE

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Republican Winthrop Rockefeller said Friday he has reached a decision on whether to run for governor.

But he wouldn't reveal what it was and he said he wanted to give Gov. Orval E. Faubus a chance to announce his plans first.

Faubus said he was having a public opinion poll taken on the issues and on the strengths of various potential candidates. He said the poll possibly could affect his decision on whether to seek a sixth term "but I doubt that it will."

Faubus has not said whether he has made up his mind.

Thus the jockeying for position continued in what could be the most colorful political battle in Arkansas' history.

Both Rockefeller and Faubus have said they consider the other a candidate. Neither has revealed his own plans, but indications are that both will run.

Rockefeller said he would call a news conference when he gets ready to announce his plans.

Two years he bought television time for a political announcement and most observers thought he would toss his hat into the ring. Instead, he used the time to say that he would not run.

Rockefeller attended a meeting of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission Friday. He is chairman of that group and he has said he will resign the post if he decides to run.

Rockefeller told a newsman that he thought it would be polite to tell other commission members his plans in advance, but he also said that would be a good way to provide a leak.

Of Faubus, Rockefeller said, "He's the incumbent. He should have the privilege of announcing first."

Faubus was closeted with his private pollster, Eugene Newsom of Paragould. Newsom heads Mid-South Opinion Surveys Inc., which has run surveys for Faubus since 1958.

Faubus would not say what questions Newsom will ask in the poll. He did say they would cover the issues and the strengths of various political candidates. "But I don't think I want to name any of the potential candidates at this time," Faubus said.

The governor has indicated he does not believe any Democrat but himself could beat Rockefeller. Many observers think no Republican but Rockefeller has a chance against Faubus.

If both ran, the big political battle would be this fall for the general election. But both would have to be nominated in the party primaries.

The ticket for the primaries closes April 29.

Faubus said his new poll would cover Clark and Conway counties. Polls conducted recently in those counties by Republicans showed—according to the Republicans—that Rockefeller could poll more than 50 per cent of the vote.

Spring: But Winter Is Still Here

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter held a reluctant grip on Arkansas today — the first day of spring — and unless a cold front moves through the state faster than expected a cool weekend is in store.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock predicts low temperatures of 27 to 32 in the central section tonight, in the low 20s in the north and in the 30s in the south.

The forecast also called for the possibility of light snow flurries or scattered light showers in the extreme northern section of Arkansas.

Weekend weather should be partly cloudy and cool, with a warming trend beginning the first of next week, the Weather Bureau said.

Overnight low readings Thursday night ranged from a 32 at Fayetteville to 49 at Texarkana and Pine Bluff. Maximum readings Thursday were generally in the 60s.

Highs in the 40s north to 60s south are forecast today.

Start 6 Million Broiler Chicks

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas producers started 5,836,000 broiler chicks during the week ended March 14, the Crop Reporting Service estimated today. This is two per cent above the figure for the previous week.

Of total placements in the state, 5,152,000 chicks were hatched in Arkansas and 684,000 shipped in.

Salinger Quits, Seeks Senate Post

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — "My shape is not good; I may be plucky, but I'm not stupid." So said Pierre Salinger, a roundish type. It could have been his epitaph.

But it was just his way of declining to lead newsmen on a 50-mile hike in 1963 when President Kennedy was pushing a physical fitness program.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy had already done the 50 to show how fit the Kennedy administration was.

Therefore, Salinger concluded: "A further demonstration on my part would be superfluous and possibly disastrous."

Thursday he took what may be the longest walk of his life. He resigned as President Johnson's press secretary to try to run for the Senate from California.

At the same time Dean Rusk, secretary of state, was reported planning to quit Johnson's administration after next November's elections.

Rusk, a tallish type with a tall forehead and few giggles, not only denied he would quit next November but said he had no plans to quit at all.

Two more different men than the decorous Dean and the pixie Pierre would be hard to find; there's been nothing like them in years.

Rusk's three years as secretary of state have been fantastic in the sense he has been almost totally free of criticism.

This is almost unbelievable for anyone who saw the batting his two predecessors got: Dean Acheson under President Truman and John Foster Dulles under President Eisenhower.

The dark-haired, informal, cigar-chomping, witty, piano-playing Salinger got along delightfully with the press.

And he adored the food of his French ancestors, tons of it.

One of his jobs, of course, was to help Kennedy and later Johnson look good. Neither needed much help.

Kennedy was an expert at public relations and Johnson judging from the glowing public opinion polls, is his own Madison Avenue.

Rusk, who seems to consider himself strictly a foreign affairs technician and not a public opinion molder, stays in the background.

This worked fine with Kennedy and Johnson since they made sure that they, and not the secretary of state, made the big pronouncements in foreign affairs.

It was different in the Truman-Acheson and Eisenhower-Dulles days. The secretaries talked up, sometimes too much, and got splattered for it.

How long Rusk stays with Johnson will probably depend on how much Johnson listens to his modest secretary.

Johnson already has said a few things about foreign relations which must have made the studious, careful Rusk wince.

While the merry, breezy Salinger was the White House minister of information, he also presided over some misinformation on the small things.

That's when he gave answers off the top of his head and got some details wrong.

As Kennedy's press secretary, he succeeded a formidable man: the tense, driving James Hagerty, who did amazingly at making his boss, President Eisenhower, look good.

Salinger did extremely well, but in a far more relaxed way. You'll have a tough time remembering once when Kennedy goofed in press relations.

But Salinger had more going for him than Hagerty.

Eisenhower, no intellectual, admitted once he was desultory in reading newspapers. Kennedy ate them.

Eisenhower was courteous with newsmen, but it was a distant courtesy. Kennedy embraced them. Newsmen waiting to see him looked like a head-line.

Cambodia's Air Attack Protested

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam protested today that Cambodian fighters shot down an American-piloted Vietnamese plane. However, it apologized for the air attack on a Cambodian border village during which the unarmed spotter plane went down.

The stiff protest issued by the Saigon government was expected to strain still further relations between the two Indochinese neighbors, long in dispute over their ill-defined border.

Charging that 16 Cambodians were killed in the air attack, Cambodia has postponed peace talks scheduled with South Viet Nam this weekend. The United States has warmly supported these negotiations in hopes of keeping neutralist Cambodia out of the beckoning arms of Red China.

The Vietnamese charged that two Cambodian fighters crossed into Vietnamese territory Thursday, shot down the lightweight L19 spotter plane, then flew back across the frontier.

It said radar tracked movements of the two Cambodian aircraft, which U.S. observers at the scene had said were of the propeller-driven T28 type given to Cambodia in the U.S. military assistance program last year.

The American pilot of the Vietnamese air force plane, which was observing air attacks on the guerrilla-infested Cambodian border village of Chantrea, was seriously injured.

The Saigon government accepted full responsibility for its aircraft strafing Chantrea, 40 miles west of Saigon, and formally apologized to Cambodia.

A Foreign Ministry communiqué said the government took full responsibility concerning this matter, "caused by an error in locating map coordinates."

The air attack on the Cambodian hamlet and the alleged downing of the Vietnamese plane constituted the most serious incident to date between the two countries.

A. Janeway Dies, Rites at 2 Sunday

Aubrey A. Janeway, 61, died in a Little Rock hospital Friday after a long illness. He was a resident of Hope and a member of Sutherland Assembly Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Beulah Stevenson Janeway, and two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Hunter of Laneburg and Mrs. Mac Arnold of Hope. His mother, Mrs. Ruth Arnette of Hope and two granddaughters.

Funeral services are set for Sunday, at 2 p.m. in the Southside Assembly Church with the Rev. Joseph Geno officiating, assisted by the Rev. B. J. Wilhite.

Interment is to be in Anderson Cemetery by Oakcrest Funeral Home.

Police State Bill Killed by Ontario

TORONTO (AP) — Ontario Premier John P. Robarts culminated a wild shouting match in the Ontario legislature today by announcing what amounts to withdrawal of the province's proposed bill giving the Ontario Police Commission broad new powers.

The bill, introduced Thursday by Atty. Gen. Frederick Cass, would allow persons to be detained in jail indefinitely without trial. Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver said never in his 38 years in the House had a bill aroused such concern and anger.

Cass, whose job was described as in danger by the Toronto Telegram earlier had called the measure necessary for the public good.

The Ontario Police commission issued a special report on Thursday declaring it had found evidence that organized crime was increasing in gambling, narcotics, counterfeiting, armed robbery, theft, prostitution, extortion, intimidation and protection rackets in Ontario.

It May Look Political Nowadays But Hope P.O. Had Romantic Beginning

By MARY ANITA LASETER

The Post Office has been the subject of much discussion, correspondence, and differences of opinion in the past few weeks, but according to Mrs. Sid Henry in the Arkansas Centennial Edition of the Hope Star in 1936, love once bloomed at the village post office.

It seems that long before the construction of the present post office building all business of the post office was conducted in the extreme rear of the longest brick building in town. She stressed "extreme rear" because the prospective customer had to walk the length of a city block inside the building in order to get to the one small window from which all business was transacted. You see, there was no such thing as stamp machines placed conveniently near the door.

But everything has its compensations, Mrs. Henry recalled, for it was really delightful to meet one's best beau at the door of the P.O. and have that nice long walk to the window. Many a romance had its beginning or culmination in that walk.

"Let's Take An Old Fashioned Walk" was a suggestion, not a song title, in those days. And other fields rich in romantic lore were the long walks either to the cemetery (Rose Hill) or down the railroad track (MoPac or L & A).

Walking on the railroad track was not as dangerous as walking on the streets. In the first place, the rail traffic was not as heavy as today, and secondly, the unpaved streets could be downright hazardous. The most vivid imagination can not picture anything as muddy or dusty as this town before the paving of the downtown district.

Believe it or not in the rainy season it was necessary to place signs in the middle of the busiest streets warning the pedestrian that he might "disappear or hail Old China" if he ventured beyond that warning.

"Miss Kate" mentioned her first, and probably her last, social offense in her article of fond reminiscence. She was the first woman in Hope to ride a bicycle, thereby losing a much coveted position as teacher in the high school.

As for more accepted modes of early transportation, we think of the horse and buggy. In early accounts of our town's history we learned that one of the prominent corners was the one occupied by the livery stable, where the Hope Furniture Company now stands.

Since the writer, Mrs. Henry, reported Society news in the STAR a good many years, she was well aware of what interested her women readers. Therefore, her column from which we quote here asked the question, "Do you remember the first girl that dared face the proprieties with what we now call bobbed hair?" Barring illness such as typhoid fever which made cutting the long locks a necessity, the beauty of a woman was not marred with short hair. For that matter "going to the beauty parlor" was unheard of.

Like riding a bicycle or mailing a letter today, the modern trend in coiffures is for ease of handling. Aren't you glad, girls?

Length of Service Key to Retiring

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A determined rank-and-file campaign to link retirement to years of service, regardless of age, was under way today as the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers Union opened its annual convention.

Advocates of a "25-30 & 60 now" plan claimed at a gathering of more than 300 delegates Thursday night they have support of locals with more than 600,000 of the UAW's 1,126,000 members.

The plan calls for the union to demand retirement after 25 years' service at one-half pay. After 30 years a worker would be eligible for two-thirds pay. At age 60, regardless of service, a worker would be entitled to a pension of $5.60 monthly for each year of service.

The retirement age in the auto industry is 65 years and the pension rate is $2.80 monthly for each year of service.

Three-year contracts with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler expire Aug. 31, and negotiations will open about July 1. The convention here will set the union's goals.

El Dorado to Close 2 Schools

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — The El Dorado School Board announced Friday that it would close two elementary schools and reduce the number of teachers and other employees in an economy move.

A board statement said the elementary schools would be closed and that the pupils would be sent to the Westwood and Hugh Goodwin schools.

The board also said the number of teachers would be reduced along with the number of clerical and maintenance employees.

Amounts budgeted for travel, capital outlay and maintenance will be cut.

The board gave no figures or statistics in its statement, but said it would have another statement which would include these items. A board spokesman said the figures were not complete.

The board has held a series of meetings on economy. The statement said the changes were necessary in order to operate the school system within available funds.

The changes will be for the 1964-65 school year.

Pair Hijack Helicopter From Cuba

By THEODORE A. EDIGER

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The bloody hijacking of a Cuban military helicopter by two youths defecting to the United States was under tight federal investigation today.

The body of the pilot, with six bullet holes, lay in a morgue in Key West where the Russian-made helicopter landed Friday from Havana.

The two anti-Castroites who engineered the bizarre death battle over the Atlantic Ocean, taken to Miami for questioning by immigration authorities, transported separately to Miami for U.S. grilling was a mechanic aboard the helicopter who said he wanted to return to Cuba.

Authorities indicated the questioning might take days.

When the drab green helicopter landed at Key West International Airport the mechanic, Sergio Roque, 17, started running. He was caught 1,200 feet from the craft.

The hijackers — Guillermo Santos and Andres Izaguirre — told police they commandeered the copter shortly after it left Havana under a plan they had plotted carefully in advance. They told the pilot, Jose Marcia, to fly to the United States. When he refused, the shooting broke out.

A sheriff's deputy reported that while all shots appeared to have been fired from Santos gun there was indication of a struggle between the pilot and his self-imposed co-pilot.

Santos, a regular Army pilot, said he took the controls for the fight to Key West.

There was no word on whether Navy jets scrambled to meet the copter as it flew into Key West.

Santos, a regular army pilot, said he took the controls for the flight to Key West.

The manager of the Key West airport, George Faraldo, said he ran to meet the helicopter. As he sprinted across the field, the two men inside drew their pistols, he said.

"I disarmed them," Faraldo said. "I was unarmed myself."

A loaded 50-caliber machine-gun was mounted on the nose of the helicopter, Faraldo reported.

Dean Rusk May Leave Cabinet

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dean Rusk seems likely to stay on as secretary of state through the November elections, but what will happen after that is uncertain.

Sources close to Rusk said he has given no thought to resigning now.

And they pointed out that it is up to the voters in November to name the next president, and it will then be up to the chief executive — whether President Johnson or someone else — to select his Cabinet.

Pending these decisions, they said, Rusk can hardly say that he will be staying on for another four years.

The American Broadcasting Co., which said Thursday that Rusk would step down after the elections, also reported that Pierre Salinger planned to resign as White House news secretary.

He did, and his top assistant, Andrew T. Hatcher, also quit.

Rusk, in Salt Lake City for a speech, told newsmen: "The day after President Kennedy died, President Johnson asked me to stay on. I am at his disposal. I have no plans to resign at all. The President and I haven't discussed the matter."

Preliminary for Junior Miss Show

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—State titlists from Georgia, Missouri, Illinois and Tennessee took the lead in preliminary judging of the America's Junior Miss pageant.

Georgia's entry, Diane Blackstock, 17, of Thomaston, went to the fore Wednesday night for her scholastic achievement. Missouri's Junior Miss, Susan Harting, 17, of Ladue, took the lead for poise and appearance.

Margaret "Peggy" Fish, 17, of Chicago won in the creative and performing arts category and Tennessee's Diane Denton, 17, of McMinnville, won top honors in the youth fitness group.

Now over the hump of first night nerves, the 50 contenders for the crown are already concentrating on tonight's second preliminary evening of judging.

Trophies are awarded each preliminary evening of judging. Arkansas' entry in the pageant is Leslie Smith, 18, of Little Rock.

Trophies are awarded each night in the preliminary judging to the winner of each division. The Junior Misses are judged on a cumulative point system.

The girl with the most points will be crowned the 1964 winner Saturday night by Diane Sawyer of Louisville, Ky., last year's Junior Miss.

The winner will receive a $6,000 cash scholarship to the college.

Reduction of Older Planes Is Proposed

GENEVA (AP)—The United States proposed to the Soviet Union today that they each destroy 400 planes from their strategic bomber fleets over a two-year period.

The proposal for destruction of American B47 and Soviet TU16 Badger bombers was made at a meeting of the 17-nation disarmament conference by U.S. negotiator Adrian S. Fisher.

It differed substantially from the demand for total destruction of all strategic bombers of both nations made to the conference on Jan. 29 by Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin.

Fisher suggested that the two big powers should each destroy 20 planes a month over a two-year period. In addition, he said the United States is prepared to destroy an additional agreed number of planes in its mothball reserve.

Fisher stressed that the destruction of planes would have to be carried out under strict observation by the other nation.

"The B47 and the TU16 bombers are logical armaments with which to start the process of physical destruction of arms," Fisher said.

"The United States and the Soviet Union possess roughly comparable numbers of these aircraft and the two types of aircraft have been assigned generally similar strategic roles."

Fisher met in advance an expected Soviet objection that both the B47 and the Badger are being phased out of battle-ready forces as obsolete.

"The phasing out of aircraft does not mean destruction," he said. "Bombers in storage can be flying again in short order."

Fisher warned that the B47 and the Badger also could become a threat to peace if they fell into the hands of nonnuclear powers, which have no plane of similar performance.

Foreign Aid Faces Rough Road Hazard

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson sends to Congress today a request for $3.4 billion in new foreign aid funds to carry on the overseas assistance program another year.

Advance indications are that once again the program will find rough going at the Capitol.

Last year President John F. Kennedy first made a $4.9 billion aid request. After he had pared the figure to $4.5 billion, Congress chopped off another $1.5 billion.

The resulting $3 billion appropriation plus about $400 million in carryover money from previously voted aid funds made the total for the current year about the same as the $3.4 billion Johnson wants for the next fiscal year starting July 1.

Johnson indicated in his January budget that he will ask for $1 billion in arms and $2.4 billion in economic assistance. The program aims at helping the economic development of poorer countries so they can become self-supporting and better able to withstand the enticements of communism.

It also helps support friendly armed forces in strategically located countries, mainly those on the borders of the Chinese-Soviet bloc.

Whether Johnson will overhaul the operation of the aid program to any great degree remains to be seen from his message.

It was previously reported a top-level aid review committee had recommended against any major shakeup.

The committee headed by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball and composed mainly of high government officials, was appointed by Johnson last December to canvass alternatives in the wake of criticisms of the program.

lege of her choice. The first alternate gets a $4,000 scholarship, second $2,000 and the third and fourth $1,000.

It was well after six when they came out on a crest of bald rock and Medders, digging the glass from his pack, squatted down for a long careful look. He could see from this vantage San Xavier del Bac and considerable activity between the gypsum white of its structures and the tree-fringed gorge of the Santa Cruz where that bunch of Tucson loafers were busily gophering up the ground. Off to the north another spread of dust was inching along the Ajo trail bound straight for the granite-ribbed slopes of this peak, and it was not being raised by any two-three hombres.

Bitterly counting dots, near as Charlie could figure there was upwards of 15 rannies down there—a heap too many to be anything but a posse. Jones had given his sheriff orders to fetch Medders in.

After another 10 minutes of trying to locate Burks and that pair he had with him, it came over Charlie suddenly their whole purpose in being out here could be to effect a surround and drive him into the arms of McFarrell's deputies.

If this were true he had given that black-haired pair time enough to get through and be waiting to pick him up when he came out of the rocks, which he would have to do if he was minded to cross the Altar Valley, his original intention. The hills he was bound for were hidden from here, west and somewhat south, beyond the Baboquivaries, all Papago country, rough and wild as a javalina.

He could work north from here and drop down into the Avra Valley, another arid stretch 50 miles off his course, and from there, swinging south around the Roskrage Mountains, reach the cave—if the burros didn't give out first. But there was no water that way, and the big fly here was the whereabouts of Burks. It didn't have to follow that because he could not spot Burks, the bank's trouble-shooter was under a like handicap.

It wasn't enough they had stolen his ore, glommed onto O'Toole's stinky cash he'd been forced to pitch into the banker's hat—they had to whipsaw him out of the whole shebang and, when that hadn't worked, drive him into the rocks!

If it was fight they wanted he would give them a belly-flop!

Reloading his rifle—the 16 pound Sharps that could knock a man kicking at 1,000 yards, he sent Bega and Begetta grumbling over the divide and in a lathering froth of self pity and outrage started recklessly down the mountain's far side.

These tumbled west slopes—blood red in the rays of the near-vanished sun, the top rim of which still thrust a lighthouse arc across the scarp of Dobbs Buttes.

The rocks over here were still hot to the touch, sun glare glittering and flashing from their slants, the roasted air still as stove lids. If they were over here they would probably spot him—there was just this one trail down from where he'd been; there was no good grouching at what couldn't be helped.

You couldn't hide the clomp and clatter. The big thing now was to get into the sand drifts where he had some prospect of losing the banker's minions and where, once night fell, no glass could spy him out.

He kept sharp watch but in the curdle of shadows found nothing to alarm him. That posse had likely got through the pass, but it wasn't McFarrell's crowd that bothered him. They'd be just average fellers, counter jumpers and maybe a merchant or two, pieced out with whatever ranch hands had happened to be available. It was the whereabouts of Burks and his two long-haired partners that kept Charlie's hide filled with prickles and itchings.

The wind was coming up now, whistling in off the desert. With Bega in the lead and Charlie tugging the fractious Begetta—knee deep in the tangle she generally threw whenever she was hungry or worked beyond her quota—they forged into the gale with nothing beyond that last reef of rock but the dark and wind-tossed wastes of the desert.

Bega, abruptly snorting, threw up his head and whistled like an elk. About to whirl he coughed and dropped. Medders, ducking, heard the crack of a rifle. Begetta, tail up, went past like a cat streaking over a tin roof as Charlie, palming his six-shooter, emptied it about him and, yelling like a Comanche, took to his heels.

WHAT HUSBANDS AND WIVES DISAGREE ABOUT MOST

By Dr. Joyce Brothers

Have you ever wondered what people disagree about most in marriage?

It's not raising children or sex or anything like that. It's money.

Let's look at it a little deeper. Money, or lack of it, gets blamed as the cause of friction. But in reality, it's more a symbol of deeper psychology at work.

It's below the surface, so we aren't aware consciously just where the friction is coming from.

Let's look at two fundamental differences in our male and female roles. Here is where the clue lies. A wife's role is in many ways passive. It is in sex, and in other phases of her marriage. A man's role is the reverse. It is active. He's under continual pressure to prove his manliness.

In making money he proves himself capable and manly. It has become a masculine symbol, a gauge he and others use. So he's highly vulnerable to barbs aimed at his job, or at his income.

Tell a man he is "unsuccessful" and it is as cutting as telling a woman she's unattractive.

Start Early
These basic reactions are present even in adolescence. For example, every girl remembers her first kiss; while every boy remembers his first paycheck.

So the importance of each to both begins early.

Time and again my case-history files show how just this symbolism can appear in marriage.

Take one couple. My files show the wife was openly critical that her husband didn't march in and outright demand a raise in his job. Then a month or two later when he finally got it, she belittled the increase. It was a mere nothing, she said.

This struck deeply at his masculinity, and he hit back with bitter words. But she couldn't understand why he got so angry. After all, she said, she was trying to encourage him to get ahead. That's all.

Unhappily this wife was all too typical of those who never let a man alone in his job, or admit he may be doing well to have it at all. These wives mean well, perhaps, but feel they have to goad their husbands into increasingly great accomplishments. But in doing it continually, they are making a great mistake psychologically. That is, by implying the man is a failure, through their goading. It strikes deep—much more than they intended.

Screen For Fears
Husbands make mistakes in the realm of money and marriage, too. For instance, some husbands genuinely resent splitting their paycheck with their wives. Their defense often goes something like this: "She'd spend every cent I have, if I didn't watch out."

Actually, this defense can be a screen for a husband's unconscious fear that his wife will demand more time and attention than he is willing to give her.

In general, we find that conflicts over money represent a conflict over love. When men use money as a weapon, women sometimes strike back by sex denial and frigidity. Then the husband says: "If you're cold to me, you're not real wife. So why should I buy all these things for you?"

Sometimes money—which is so often a love-conflict in disguise—works still more deceptively.

Some husbands in their inner conflict reverse the role of the stingy husband. They shower a wife with money instead of love. Here it is an escape, a substitute. He tries to make up with money and presents when he doesn't want to give of himself.

So if money is sometimes a symbol of love, it can also be a substitute.

Often a counter-reaction to this can be excessive extravagance by a wife. She senses she is being personally neglected.

What she is really seeking in that new mink coat, new car, or extra wardrobe are substitutes for the tenderness or physical love she is being denied.

Wealth No Help
The fact that the arguments are not caused by a lack of money can be seen by the fact that as a couple's income increases, even substantially, the arguments do not decrease. They merely become the same argu-

New Revenue Building Job Contracted

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Harmon Construction Co. of Little Rock will build the state Revenue Department Building.

The firm won a $1,569,000 contract Wednesday and Revenue Commissioner J. Orville Cheney said construction should start within three weeks.

The building should be ready for use by July 1, 1965, Cheney said.

The Harmon company had submitted a bid of $1,556,000 for an electrically air conditioned building, but the Revenue Building Commission, which opened bids, decided to pay an additional $13,000 for gas air conditioning.

Cheney said maintenance savings on a gas unit would more than make up the $13,000 extra cost.

The building will be located just west of the present capitol grounds on land being acquired from the Little Rock Housing Authority in an urban renewal project.

Plans call for the building to have a basement and two floors with 90,000 square feet of working space.

The 1961 Legislature authorized the building and set up the machinery for financing it with a $1.6 million bond issue, which is to be retired with income from a 50 cent increase in the automobile title registration fee.

The exterior of the building is to be of Batesville stone to conform with the other five buildings on the grounds.

The new building became necessary when the Revenue Department outgrew its old quarters.

New Demands Are Outlined by Reuther

By A. F. MAHAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N.Y. (AP)—Bonus pay while on vacation and a coffee break for production workers are among contract improvements which Walter P. Reuther says his AFL-CIO United Auto Workers will demand this year.

Higher pay while on vacation, "to cover the extra costs of travel and spending time away from home," was described by Reuther, UAW president, Wednesday as a new concept to be raised in negotiations with auto makers.

This and the coffee break proposal were disclosed by Reuther at a news conference as delegates from across the country gathered here for Friday's opening of the union's convention.

The union also will demand a wage increase.

Three-year contracts between the auto workers and the auto-makers expire Aug. 31. Negotiations begin 60 days earlier.

Reuther said it might not be possible because of the nature of the work to force all auto manufacturers to require all employees to take vacations.

Reuther said he thought union sentiment favored required vacations for all. He said enforced vacations and abolition of "excessive overtime" were among means to accomplish the union's "major thrust in the direction of creating job opportunities for those now unemployed."

Reuther said working conditions must be improved to include rest periods in addition to the two 12-minute relief breaks per shift now prevailing.

"Something like a coffee break but over larger sums of money. Sometimes financial troubles can actually bring a couple closer together when there is real love between them. They are then striving for a common goal, fighting a common enemy."

Suppose conflicts about money arise in your own marriage. How do you approach the problem?

Your first and foremost help is to realize the underlying cause of the conflict. And you look for the answers with both a stingy and excessively generous husband. One may represent withdrawal of love; and the other, the opposite.

If your husband isn't making the money you feel he should, approach the subject perceptively. One approach is to suggest he is too capable and brilliant for the lesser position he now holds.

But under no circumstance goad him as this wife did her husband in the case history I told you about. It openly degrades him self-image as a man.

And instead of attaining the goal you want, it only serves to begin other conflicts that may be much more serious in your marriage.

Pours Herself Cup of Poison

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—A woman mistakenly poured herself a cup of boiling cyanide solution instead of coffee, sipped it and died, within five minutes, police said.

"What was it?" were the dying words of Mrs. Adeline M. Kehoe, 57, Wednesday.

It was Mrs. Kehoe's first day on the job at a metals firm. Officers said she apparently noticed the pot of amber-colored cyanide boiling on the stove and mistook it for coffee. A coffee urn was on a box nearby.

The cyanide is used in metal processing.

Bookies Are Cheerful on Eve of Race

LONDON (AP)—The bookies were all smiles today as they anticipated Saturday's 123rd running of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree.

The reason for the glee was the victory Wednesday of a 33-1 shot, Jiggy Ghurka, in the Lincolnshire — annual preliminary to the Grand National.

The Lincolnshire result left few big spring doubles—one in which bettors try to link winners for the two races—alive for Saturday's 4½-mile over 30 towering obstacles.

It also means that the National odds are unlikely to shift at today's call-over by Britain's top bookies: A field of 37, which could be pared to 25 before post time, remains entered with Time, at 14-1, the favorite.

Flying Wild, owned by Raymond Guest of New York, and Team Spirit, owned by John K. Goodman of Tucson, Ariz., carry U.S. hopes in the gruelling race. Flying Wild was quoted at 16-1 and Team Spirit at 25-1.

The National is worth $61,600 to the winning owner and carries the first Irish Sweepstakes of the season, a multimillion dollar lottery with five million ticket holders in 100 countries.

Ashley Asks for Speedy Arraignment

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—An attorney for Leslie Douglas Ashley has asked for a speedy trial for his client.

Ashley, 26, formerly of Hot Springs, is charged in the 1961 gun-torch slaying of Houston real estate man Fred A. Tones and is awaiting his second trial.

Carolyn Ann Lima, Ashley's former girl friend, was tried two weeks ago in the same case and drew a five year prison sentence.

Ashley and Miss Lima were tried jointly in 1961 and received the death penalty but a federal court ruling reversed the decision and ordered new trials for them.

Lloyd Lunsford, Ashley's attorney, charged in a motion Wednesday that Ashley's constitutional rights to a speedy trial are being denied.

Lunsford asked for the trial after Dist. Judge Miron A. Love denied a motion for an estimated 10-day hospital furlough for Ashley to take new psychiatric tests.

The defense said the hospital tests were necessary to prepare a request for a pre-trial sanity hearing.

Judge Love denied the request after hearing testimony from Chief Deputy Sheriff Loyd D. Frazier that Ashley would be a security problem in a hospital.

The first open dates for capital cases in Judge Love's court are the weeks of April 6 and 20.

Bond Says the Colts Rescued Him

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

COCOA, Fla. (AP)—As Walter Bond tells it, the Houston Colts liberated him from an enemy camp when they purchased his contract from the Cleveland Indians last winter.

Eyes flashing in anger, lips dripping with words of bitterness, Bond recounted what he called his seven years of captivity as an Indian farmhand.

"They never gave me a chance," he related, at a breakfast conversation. "They just kept me in the minors. I hit .300 every year but they kept sending me back. Other guys hit .270 and .280 and were brought up but me, I just sat in the minors. They figured a big guy like me should hit 40 to 50 homers to deserve a shot in the majors."

The record book shows that Bond topped the .300 mark only three times and that the Indians did bring him up as many times. But when a man is 6-foot-6, weighs 240 pounds and is angry, to boot, you just listen.

"They brought me up to Cleveland for 12 games in September of 1962," Bond recalled. "I hit .380 with six homers and 17 runs batted in. Everybody's happy. The manager tells me I'm their right fielder for 1963. They keep telling me that all winter."

"Comes spring training, they got another guy in right field. 'We just want to give everybody a chance,' they tell me. A week before opening day, they buy another guy and put him in right field. 'Don't worry,' they tell me, 'you're still the right fielder. We just want to see what this fellow has.'"

"Three weeks later I'm in Jacksonville. Never even got to bat once. Other clubs wanted to buy me but they refused. They want me to play for them in the minors."

Bond batted .276 at Jacksonville but hammered 25 homers. He hit .352 in Puerto Rico and led the winter league with 12 homers. These totals looked good to Houston General Manager

Hope Takes 3rd Place in Track Meet

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sports Writer

Hope came in third in a three way meet at Camden yesterday afternoon.

It was all anyone could do to keep from freezing in the cold, bitter wind that slowed the runners and hampered performance.

Coach Alan Howard was pleased by the times turned in by most Hope tracksters, taking into consideration all the disadvantages they work under. He said that he was shooting for third, because "you have to crawl before you walk."

The only first place time turned in by a Bobcat was 25.3 220 by Johnny Samuels. Jerry Burnett had a 25.7 time on the 220 for a second.

Camden was the winner of the meet, Fairview second, and Hope third, Prescott fourth, Strong fifth, and Norphlet sixth.

Letter From Mrs. Kennedy Sells High

NEW YORK (AP)—A letter Mrs. John F. Kennedy wrote to an Englishman, rejecting his request for money, brought $3,000 at a public auction Thursday night.

Charles Hamilton, who held the auction, said it was by far the highest price ever paid for a letter from a living person.

Alvin J. Slater, 44, a Boston lawyer, was the successful bidder. He said he plans to keep the letter in his collection of autographs.

Hamilton had purchased the letter for $80 from Ronald C. Munro of Birmingham, England.

Munro had written Mrs. Kennedy, enclosing a newspaper wealth, and suggesting she send

Dr. King Has Advice for Cassius Clay

DETROIT (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King's advice to heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay:

"I think perhaps Cassius Clay should spend more time improving his boxing skill and do less talking."

Neither does Dr. King approve of Clay's becoming a member of the Black Muslims.

And if Clay should fight former champion Floyd Patterson, Dr. King would back Patterson "on principle."

The Negro minister and integration leader took a critical view of Clay's statements and activities during a news conference Thursday. Dr. King was in the city to preach a Lenten sermon.

"When Cassius Clay joined the Black Muslims and started calling himself Cassius X," Dr. King said "he became a champion of racial segregation."

"And that is what we are fighting against. I believe neither in black supremacy nor white supremacy. I believe in equality."

The Black Muslims favor separation of the races. They also support what they call black supremacy.

ager Paul Richards and the Colts purchased the 26-year-old Tennesseean conditionally.

To VICTORY

...that is the cry of the multitude. Today we join the happy throngs around the earth as we shout together, "Hosanna!" Whatever the morrow may hold of suffering, today we declare to the world... "Christ has come." Because we are in His company, we know that God ultimately will be sovereign over all the world. We are confident that goodness is stronger than evil. We are sure love will triumph over hate. Whatever a Friday of crucifixion may bring of temporary defeat, we know life will triumph over death, and the Christian way will resolve itself supremely in the final destiny. Then Palm Sunday is a day to celebrate and set up our banner of hope. "For right is right as God is and right the day must win." This hope will convert, for us, spiritual defeat into eternal victory.
